High U. S. Officials Accused of Aiding Sale of Munitions

Name of Former Ambassador Frederick Morgan Linked With Activities of American Firm Manufacturing Arms.

ARMAMENT RACE LAID TO INDUSTRY

Vice President of Submarine Building Firm Sees Civilization Doom If New War Comes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—An American ambassador and other high government officials were disclosed today by senate munitions probes to have helped this country's biggest submarine builder sell its death-dealing wares in South America.

As a climax to open accusations that the Electric Boat Company, of New York, employed bribery in promoting Latin American sales, the senate investigating committee heard testimony that Frederick Morgan, former ambassador to Brazil, had aided the concern back in 1922.

A letter from Morgan to Frederick E. Chapin, company representative, was put in the record, in which the then-ambassador said he had consulted Luis Aubry, South American submarine salesman, over a three-month period. He added that the American naval mission would be consulted before further orders were given.

This revelation was mixed with another—a statement by L. Y. Spear, vice president of Electric Boat, that in his opinion "civilization cannot stand" under the blow of another world war. He added, however, that he was a businessman and that his business was "selling submarines."

Electric Boat, which is allied with the giant British armament firm, Vickers, Ltd., to dominate world armament building, was shown by firm records introduced today to have been aided in South America not only by Morgan but also by American naval missions to Brazil and Peru.

It developed further that the concern paid for a passage to Europe in 1928 for the wife of "Admiral" How, former head of the American naval mission to Peru, and her son. Navy records show that Captain Alfred G. Howe was head of the Peruvian naval mission from 1926 to 1928.

This episode was disclosed in a letter written by Henry R. Carse, president of the boat company, to Spear. Both Carse and Spear were witnesses today and will continue again tomorrow, but they could throw little light on the matter.

Carse's letter mentioned "another outfit," and the Levantine (fare was "extra." He promised to refresh his memory and clear up the matter.

It had been testified earlier that Rear Admiral C. H. Woodward, also former head of the naval mission to Peru, was favorably disposed toward Electric Boat.

Woodward agreed, letters showed.

Talmadge To Ignore Pittman Debate Defi

It was learned Wednesday night that Governor Talmadge will ignore the request of Judge Claude G. Pittman, of Cartersville, one of his two opponents for re-election to meet him in joint debate.

The governor said he had received the telegram from Judge Pittman but added he had no comment to make.

It is not expected that the governor will make any reply, as he has consistently avoided mentioning the names of Judge Pittman or Ed A. Gilliam, his other opponent, and has made no direct reply to anything they have said concerning him.

'RIDE-ROB' BANDIT IS SHOT TO DEATH BY YOUNG AUTOIST

Roy W. Pearson, 20, Snatches Robber's Pistol and Pours Five Bullets Into His Chest.

A well-dressed 20-year-old "ride-rob" bandit was slain late Wednesday by his intended victim, Roy W. Pearson, 20, of 17 Fair street, S. W., manager of a chain grocery store at Woodward avenue and Martin street.

Pearson killed the bandit with the latter's pistol by firing five shots into the man's chest.

He told police that he was driving to his home late Wednesday night and stopped at Fair street and Capitol avenue for a red light. The young bandit, well dressed and wearing rimless glasses, stepped on the running board of his car and, opening the door, got into the car beside him.

"If you've got any sense, you'll drive where I tell you without making any noise," Pearson said the bandit said, poking him in the side with a pistol.

Obediently the bandit's directions, Pearson said he drove to a lonely spot on McDonough road, approximately two miles beyond the federal penitentiary, where the bandit ordered him to get out of the car and go over to a field beside the road. He said that he went into the field but the bandit called him back to the car, a new coupe, which had choked down.

Pearson said he went back to the car and the bandit's pistol was leveled at him, re-started the car. When the car was started, the bandit, Pearson said, laid the pistol, a .32-caliber revolver, down on the seat to free his hands to grab the wheel.

Catching the bandit momentarily off guard, Pearson said he grabbed the pistol off the seat, leveled it at the bandit, and fired five shots without making a sound. He died instantly.

The shooting took place just over the Fulton-DeKalb county line, in DeKalb county.

Pearson told DeKalb police that

Wallace Announces Plan Allowing Drought-Stricken Growers To Shift Allotments.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today set a price for tax exempt certificates upon cotton production at four cents a pound on the cotton they represent. A farmer who sells his excess certificates will be paid roughly on the basis of $20 per bale.

At the same time the secretary created a national pool to direct sale and purchase of the certificates, which were issued under the Bankhead production control act and represent the total amount of cotton a farmer may produce tax free. Production above quotas set under the act is subject to a tax of 50 per cent of its value.

The pool will permit the sale of excess certificates by farmers in the drought area, where production has been sharply cut. They will be sold principally in the old south, where production is prospectively greater than Bankhead allotments.

Alabamian Named.

Wallace appointed Ernest L. Deal, of Florence, Ala., as manager of the pool.

The exchange of certificates will operate to aid farmers in the drought area by permitting them to realize at least some cash on their excess certificates and at the same time will help others in more favorable production areas by enabling them to avoid paying the heavy penalty tax on production above the quota.

U. S. Won't Buy.

Government purchase of certificates is not contemplated. Holders will turn them over to the manager of the pool, who will handle them in the hands of producers under a trust agreement.

When the pool is closed all money on hand from sale of certificates, exclusive of expenses, will be divided among producers each to receive his share in the proportion that his poundage surrendered by him bears to the total poundage in the pool. Likewise each producer will get his proportionate share of all unsold certificates, which will be valuable next year if the Bankhead act is continued.

The Bankhead act permits a national tax-free production of 10,400,251 bales, a figure well above the last official estimate of 1934 production, which was 9,850,000 bales. The excess in certificates probably will be greater in Texas and Oklahoma than in any other states.

70 Per Cent.

The four-cent price for certificates set by Wallace is about 70 per cent of the tax of 5.67 cents per pound shown.

Aluminum Strike Ends On 'Compromise Basis'

8,700 Workers Will Return to Jobs in Six Plants Friday; Agreement Reached After Lengthy Negotiations.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 6.—(Thursday)—The moving aluminum strike was declared ended early today and the 8,700 workers will return to their jobs in six plants of the Aluminum Company of America Friday morning.

Fred Keightley, veteran conciliator of the federal labor department, emerged from a conference between company officials and union representatives with the brief announcement of a settlement has been reached that will be put in final form Thursday morning. Operations will be resumed as far as possible Friday morning.

Keightley refused to add to this.

Dave Williams, an American Federation of Labor official who assisted the National Council of Aluminum Workers in the negotiations, said: "You can't say anybody won or lost anything now; there are some issues that have not been ironed out yet and to say what decision has been reached might cause another strike before this is ended."

"I think it would be better to say the agreement is a compromise," said C. C. Carr, public relations counsel for the aluminum company.

An earlier conference in Washington had ended in a deadlock over signing of a union contract, collection of union dues by the company for the union, and a universal wage scale. The plants involved are located in East St. Louis, Ill., Massena, N. Y., Alcoa, Tenn., and Nek Kensington, Pennsylvania.

The company has refused a suggestion of Keightley that it arbitrate the dispute with the national labor board to be final judge. Observers said it is possible some compromise had been reached on this point, making the return-to-work order.

The fired conferees debated until after midnight and said they would return at 10:30 a. m. today and complete a tentative agreement, which was described by one as "very long."

DECATUR MINISTER IS KILLED BY AUTO

Rev. William H. Cooper, 70, Was Widely Known Methodist; Driver Held.

The Rev. William Henry Cooper, 70, of 124 Fairview avenue, Decatur, retired Methodist minister, was almost instantly killed early Wednesday night when he was struck by a car driven by Perian W. Butler, 23, of 118 North Fourth avenue. Deputy Mayor LaGrange and Leon and Fairview avenues, Decatur.

Mr. Cooper died of a fractured skull on route to the Emory University hospital. Butler was charged with reckless driving and a hearing will be held before Mayor J. C. Johnson at 8 o'clock this morning.

In a statement made to Patrolmen P. H. Lewis and J. N. LaSear, who investigated, Butler claimed the accident was unavoidable, as the minister was crossing the street directly into the path of his car.

Mr. Cooper was taken to the hospital by an ambulance of A. S. Turner & Sons and later to the undertaker for funeral arrangements.

He was former presiding elder of the North Georgia Methodist Conference, of which he was a member for more than 40 years. He also was treasurer of the fund for special relief of the same organization for several years.

Mr. Cooper had been retired for about 15 years. Prior to that he had charges in Elberton, Cedarhurst, Lithonia, Augusta and about 15 years ago was pastor of the St. John's Methodist church in Atlanta.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Frank H. and W. H. Cooper Jr., both of Decatur; four daughters, Mrs. Stanton Hale, of Atlanta; Mrs. H. S. Rogers Jr., of Decatur; and Mrs. T. J. Branch, of Camden, Tenn.; one brother, A. R. Cooper, of Decatur, Ga., and three sisters, Mrs. Jake Veal, of Atlanta; Mrs. L. N. Foster, of Calhoun, Ga., and Mrs. G. B. Brown, of Smyrna. Funeral arrangements will be announced by A. S. Turner & Son.

TALMADGE'S WORK LAUDED BY COZART

Columbus Jurist, Introduces Chief Executive, Ridicules Opposition.

By L. A. FARRELL.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 5.—Governor Talmadge has done for Georgia just what President Roosevelt has done for the nation, and Roosevelt and Talmadge go together "like ham and eggs," Judge A. W. Cozart, of Columbus, former president of the Georgia Bar Association and dean of the Muscogee county bar, said here today in presenting the chief executive for a campaign address which was heard by a crowd estimated at 8,000 people.

Governor Talmadge "has put clothes on the backs of the people, food in their stomachs and money in their pockets," Judge Cozart said in his address presenting the governor.

The Columbus jurist, who for many years has been a member of the Georgia board of bar examiners, ridiculed the Talmadge opposition by saying "the so-called opposition seems to think that campaign arguments should consist of bull, bombast and billingsgate."

The official estimate of the crowd was made by James S. Gordy, secretary of the Muscogee County Talmadge Club. Mr. Gordy said that his club had received the signed membership of nearly half of the registered voters of Muscogee county and added that he believed the county would be in the Talmadge county by a wide margin.

Cozart's Speech.

In presenting the governor, Judge Cozart said:

"My countrymen of this good state of Georgia:

"I count myself happy because I have the honor and pleasure of introducing to you today your present governor."

PRESIDENT CALLS ON MARION SMITH IN LABOR CRISIS

John G. Winant, of New Hampshire, and Raymond Ingersoll, of Brooklyn, Also Named.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt tonight named a board of inquiry for the textile strike of three members headed by Governor John G. Winant, of New Hampshire. The other two members are Marion Smith, of Atlanta, Ga., attorney and Raymond V. Ingersoll, president of the Borough of Brooklyn, N. Y.

On an executive order creating the board the president gave it power to "inquire into the general character and extent of the complaints of the workers in the cotton textile, wool, rayon, silk and allied industries" and further provided that:

"Upon the request of the parties to a labor dispute, act as a board of voluntary arbitration or select a person or agency for voluntary arbitration."

Mr. Roosevelt stepped into the textile dispute at the request of the national labor relations board, which asked to move aside to serve in the capacity of a court of appeal.

The board was directed by the president in the executive order creating it to make a report to the secretary of labor by October 1.

Governor Winant is a republican in the progressive group. Ingersoll has served for years as arbitrator in the New York cloak and suit industry. Smith is a son of the late Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia.

Text of Order.

The text of the executive order, establishing the textile board, after reciting the power of creation read:

"Section 1—There is hereby created in connection with the department of labor a board to be known as the board of inquiry for the cotton textile industry (herein referred to as the board), which shall be composed of John G. Winant, governor of New Hampshire, chairman; Marion Smith, of Atlanta, Ga., and Hon. Raymond V. Ingersoll, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Each member of the board shall receive necessary traveling and subsistence expenses and (unless he holds another federal or state office that requires him ineligible for compensation) $25 per diem in addition thereto.

"Section 2—The board is hereby authorized and directed to:

(a) Inquire into the general character and extent of the complaints of the workers in the cotton textile, wool, rayon, silk and allied industries.

(b) Inquire into the problems confronting the employers in said industries.

(c) Consider ways and means of settling the disputes.

Ranks of Strikers Rise to 325,000; More Mills Close

Big Textile Mill Here Operating 'As Usual'

There is one textile plant in Atlanta that has been entirely overlooked, by strikers, by mill executives, by newspaper reporters and by press photographers.

This plant, which operates every day, is an anomaly. It is both non-union and a "closed" shop. There has never been a strike, a walkout or shutdown. Labor trouble is unknown and all workers are reported as satisfied with working conditions.

It is the duck mill in the United States penitentiary with 15,000 spindles.

LABOR TO INSIST ON CONCESSIONS

Union Employs "Flying Squadron" in Pushing Effectiveness of Walk-out Past 50 Pct. Level.

By the Associated Press.

The first lives were taken yesterday in the riotous spread of the general textile strike.

As sporadic clashes throughout the south and in New England stiffened the strike between mill owners and the United Textile Workers of America, President Roosevelt at the summer White House at Hyde Park arranged for a board of mediation to seek peace. His action brought statements from owners and union leaders that they would welcome any attempts at arbitration but there were indications that labor would insist on definite concessions before it would agree.

Impartial surveys showed that some 625,000 workers in the three primary textile trades—cotton, silk and wool—upwards of 325,000 were out.

Many persons were injured and wounded in frequent clashes in southern mill towns between strikers and guards or officers.

Violence slashed through the Georgia textile mill field Wednesday and left two dead and around a score injured.

Those slain were shot in rioting at the Trion Cotton Mills in north Georgia in a battle between workers and deputy sheriffs that lasted for more than two hours. From 10 to 15 other persons were wounded, at least one of them seriously. One of the wounded was a policeman.

At Augusta during fighting at the Enterprise Mill a policeman found himself going down, wounded strikers and shot his way out, wounding three men, one seriously.

More mills closed in the state during the day in the face of bitter clashes between workers and pickets. In several places employees appealed to officers for protection so they could go about their jobs.

Governor Eugene Talmadge said last night he had taken no further action on requests for national guardmen to go on duty at Georgia mills. He closed by the textile workers' strike. Requests from three different places in Georgia for troops previously had been referred by the governor to local authorities. He told the applicants that the sheriffs had the power to swear in as many deputies as were needed to keep order. Beyond that, he said, he had not acted further.

Reports from mill centers, still incomplete, showed 30,565 of the state's normally employed 60,000 workers idle with 26,530 employed in 40 mills running full time and 15 part time. Fifty-one mills were reported closed.

Approximately 100 workers in the Arden Mills, at Newnan, who said they were not all of the 500 employees wired President Roosevelt and Governor Eugene Talmadge asking protection against pickets and complaints.

(d) Exercise in connection with said industries the powers that are authorized.

TWO MEN KILLED IN STRIKE RIOTING AT MILL IN TRION

Deputy and Rome Sympathizer Slain; More Than Score of Others Shot or Clubbed.

TRION, Ga., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two men were killed and over a score were injured in a battle here this afternoon at the Trion cotton mill between strike sympathizers and special deputies.

W. M. Nix, deputy sheriff, and J. V. Blalock, of Rome, strike sympathizer, were fatally injured.

Harvey Burnette, also of Rome and listed as a strike sympathizer, was seriously wounded by gunshot. Others who suffered from gunshot or club hurts were: V. H. Allen, Clyde Chapman and Charles Carlin, all of Rome, and Frank Campbell, of Trion; V. H. Clyde, Mac Harris, Hamp Plemmon, Bill Deal and G. L. Ball. The latter two were said to have been badly beaten with clubs.

Other injuries created at the Trion hospital were of minor nature. All of those wounded were removed to the Rome hospital tonight except Burnette, whose condition was too serious. He is at the Trion hospital.

Jim Parrish, one of the 46 special deputies who had been sworn in to guard the mill, said the trouble was started by outsiders who came to Trion.

Initial Clash.

He said Deputies Granville Ball, "Bastard" Brown and Robert Bowers were on duty when a group from Rome walked up to them at the door of the Trion mill and said:

"Buddies, why don't you give up your guns and join our side?"

Parrish related that the officers refused, whereupon the strike sympathizers undertook to disarm them. He said he closed by the textile workers' strike. Requests from three different places in Georgia for troops previously had been referred by the governor to local authorities. He told the applicants that the sheriffs had the power to swear in as many deputies as were needed to keep order. Beyond that, he said, he had not acted further.

ONE COTTON MILL IN OPERATION HERE

Fulton Bag Open as Usual, All Others Are Closed Indefinitely.

One Atlanta cotton textile plant operated full-time under normal conditions on Wednesday, feeling no effect of the nationwide strike, which has closed a large proportion of like plants all over the country.

Two other textile factories in the Atlanta metropolitan area operated for a part of the day, but police threatened early and announced there would be no further attempt to run the plant until the strike situation is cleared up.

The Piedmont Cotton Mills in Egan, just outside East Point, ran with a depleted force until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. At that time the crowds of strikers outside the plant convinced the management it would be wiser to discontinue operations.

The Scottdale Mill, in DeKalb county, ran with a partial force on the morning shift, but closed at midday and announced they would not open again under strike conditions.

Alleged "Reds" Jailed.

At the Exposition Cotton Mills, two alleged union communists were arrested on "suspicion" in connection with the distribution of alleged communist literature among the pickets.

The pickets, declaring that "we will handle our own strike without aid from communists," seized the two women and held them for police. They were taken to headquarters by Radio Patrolmen H. H. Ramsaur and S. L. Holmolen and booked as Leah Young, 34, and Annie Leathers, 29, both of 1327 Windsor street, as their address.

The officers declared that the two women said the "Internationale" all the way to police headquarters and a considerable amount of alleged communist literature was found on them.

Announced plans to open the Exposition Mills, on Marietta street, failed to materialize at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At that time, with practically the entire working force gathered outside the mill, either as pickets or onlookers, the management closed the mill.

CITY SCHOOL HEAD OUSTED BY BOARD

Miss Mamie Pitts 'Fired' for Insubordination and Physical Disability.

Miss Mamie L. Pitts, employee of the Atlanta public school system for 44 years and veteran principal of the J. Allen Cough school, Wednesday afternoon was "fired" from the Atlanta public school system, effective October 1. The vote to oust her was seven to two. The action was taken by the board of education in special session at the city hall.

The charges were:

1. Insubordination to a board of retirement committee in that she declined to attend a conference to which she was summoned and that she refused to confer with Willis A. Sutton, school superintendent, and the Rev. H. Jack Penn, fifth ward school commissioner.
2. Physical inability to discharge the duties imposed upon her.

She denied both charges, but the board voted seven to two to dismiss her. Those voting to find her guilty and then to oust her were Flanders, Bergman, Cook, Penn, Therrell, Ling and Mrs. Z. Y. Peterson. Those voting against both actions were Scott and Powell.

Says Sutton An Enemy.

During the testimony, which consumed about six hours, Miss Pitts inserted some spicy remarks into the record. She said she was doing well, the system "until a new king arose who knew not Joseph." She asserted Sutton had never liked her, although "he says he does," and added "I hope none of you claim to be my friend."

Although she came to the meeting on crutches, she discarded them to speak in her own defense and said she could walk better than President Roosevelt, "and look what a great executive he is."

Powell insisted that she be permitted to make a statement before the board took the vote on the motion to oust her, and when J. Ira Harrelson.

Roosevelt, LaGuardia Talk at Hyde Park

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP) Prediction of a formula for solving the city unemployment problem came from the summer White House today by Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, as President Roosevelt carried on a busy round of conferences.

Leaving the presidential parley, the mayor said he would be back in New York tomorrow.

"A formula will be drafted, I found the president well informed of the situation. All I can say is that I am going back in a much better frame of mind than when I came up."

Beyond this hint, there was no inkling of just what Mr. Roosevelt is working upon in this direction, although he has been canvassing this whole relief problem for the past few days with government heads and discussed it yesterday with Upton Sinclair.

Anderson Will Ask Troops for Bibb Mills

MACON, Ga., Sept. 5.—(AP)—W. D. Anderson, president of the Bibb Mills Manufacturing Company, tonight said Governor Talmadge would be asked to supply "a sufficient number of troops to maintain law and order in this county," and that if this were done, the three Bibb mills here, which closed down after disorders, today would be reopened.

Unless this protection is furnished, Anderson added, the mills "must remain closed, as we are unwilling to subject our loyal workers" to violence. He said the mills are not employing strike-breakers and reiterated that he believed those responsible for the labor troubles at the Bibb mills are "persons who have never been in our employ and who are unknown to us and to our employees."

RELIEF PAYMENTS
RAISED BY COUNTY

Board Appropriates $100,000 To Preserve U. S. Aid Until January 1.

Fulton county's rural unemployed were given another lease on life Wednesday afternoon, when the county commission voted to appropriate tentatively $100,000 to pay the four remaining $25,000 federal relief installments for the rest of the year.

The commission's action came after a long discussion with the mayors and council representatives of eight county municipalities and representatives of a committee of citizens who recently visited Alabama, Florida and Tennessee towns for a study of relief situations there.

The commission agreed to notify Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state relief director, that it was authorized to make the relief rolls could be purged in all towns, some estimating the number of persons on the rolls not entitled to aid as high as 50 per cent.

George F. Longino, chairman of the commission, suggested that the city and county get together immediately and begin plans for a permanent and well-organized relief agency to begin operation January 1, when, according to Miss Shepperson, all unemployment relief by the government will cease.

Following a discussion of the results of investigations in Alabama, Tennessee and Florida by the citizens' committee, it was pointed out that Atlanta and Fulton county are apparently paying out of proportion to other cities and counties. Mr. Longino said, however, that such a situation would have no bearing on the county's attitude, inasmuch as Miss Shepperson has said that such facts may not be considered by her in asking for the local allotments to meet her budgetary requirements.

PRESIDENT CALLS
ON MARION SMITH
IN LABOR CRISIS

President Smith called on Marion Smith, president of the Georgia Textile Association, to discuss the labor crisis. The call was made on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Marion Smith, 100 Peachtree street.

Upon the request of the parties to a labor dispute, act as a board of voluntary arbitration or select a person or agency for voluntary arbitration.

"Section 3—The board shall make, through the secretary of labor to the president, a report no later than October 1, 1934, of its activities, findings and recommendations. The board shall be exempted from making the reports or submitting to the review contemplated by the executive order providing for the creation of the national labor relations board, etc." Executive order No. 6,763, June 20, 1934.

"Section 4—The board is hereby authorized to request existing governmental agencies to render service, furnish information and otherwise aid the performance of the board in its duties. The board is further authorized, whenever necessary, to appoint additional employees without regard to their civil service laws and the classification act of 1923, as amended. The funds necessary for the payment of the salaries and expenses of the board shall, until other provision is made, be transferred to the board by the national labor relations board from its own funds.

"Section 5—The board shall cease to exist when, in the opinion of the president, it has completed the duties it is authorized to perform."

SMITH WIDELY KNOWN

AS GEORGIA ATTORNEY

Marion Smith, named Wednesday night by President Roosevelt on a board of inquiry for the textile strike, is one of the state's leading attorneys. He is the son of the late Hoke Smith, former United States senator and governor.

Mr. Smith is chairman of the Atlanta regional labor board and chairman of the Georgia state board of regents, which supervises all state colleges and institutions of higher learning. He is a member of the American Bar Association and former president of the Georgia Bar Association.

Mr. Smith said tonight he had not been notified of appointment to the textile board, but "if I should be asked I do not feel that I would be at liberty to refuse."

He is 50 years old.

STRIKE WILL GO ON.

SAYS TEXTILE LEADER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP) Francis J. Gorman, national textile strike leader, said tonight the men would not return to the mills at least until the presidential arbitration board had made its report. Beyond that time, he said, the strike committee is reserving decision.

Gorman explained that the union is ready to co-operate in a study of the controversy by the board, but that arbitration involves agreement in advance that the board's decision shall be final.

The labor leader made it clear that at present he and his colleagues are unwilling to enter into such an agreement and asserted that the strikers would "stay out until we get concessions from the mill owners."

Meantime, two men, one a mill guard, had been killed and nearly two score wounded by bullets and clubs as the steadily growing strike evoked a wave of violence that spread through Georgia and the Carolinas.

Management Blamed.

Gorman earlier blamed "management and reactionary public officials" for the bloodshed. He warned that a continuance would awaken "all the bitterness that can be aroused" in the ranks of the textile army.

"The strike continues to roll on ahead of schedule," said Gorman. "This morning a few hundred thousand had been added. Through today, mill after mill has been closed. At this hour we have fully 450,000 on strike."

Gorman's figures, however, were at variance with those produced by an Associated Press survey indicating more than 325,000 on strike, but with the strike rapidly spreading in every direction while "the slogan all along the line is 'the strike goes on.'"

Shootings Denounced. Late in the day strike headquarters of the United Textile Workers denounced the shooting of three strikers at Augusta, Ga., and indicated the union would insist on its demands despite appointment of a mediation board by the president.

Gorman made public a copy of the proposed agreement calling for union recognition; a 30-hour week; limitation of machinery; a guarantee of no replacement by employers in collection of union dues on mill premises; creation of an arbitration board with power to make binding decisions.

VIOLENCE ON INCREASE

IN S. C. MILL SECTIONS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 5.—(AP) Gunfire sounded in the south and the general textile strike's first fatalities were recorded today amid increasing violence.

Meanwhile, flying squadrons of strike shock troops rode rampant through the industrial south and there were calls for federal military intervention.

As mill after mill surrendered before the invasion of the motorcades of pickets, additional troops were ordered out by Governor Blackwood, of South Carolina, and in North Carolina Governor Ehringhaus ordered Adjutant General J. Van B. Metts to take action as necessary.

In response to a request to declare martial law in the Spartanburg-Greenville area of South Carolina, where flying squadrons of pickets sought unsuccessfully today to close down a number of textile mills. An additional national guard unit was sent to Greenville to aid five other companies in guarding the mills there, and another company was held in readiness at Lancaster awaiting further instructions.

Three of the large mills of the Pratt Springs chain were closed down. At Chester, S. C., late today by the management after they had been visited by a large squadron of pickets from neighboring counties. The three mills employ 6,000 workers. Two national guard units were rushed there to guard the plants. There was, however, no violence.

Flying Squadrons. From a score of towns in the flying squadrons' path came word of hurried preparations to receive them. Many mills prepared to close rather than face possible danger to their employees, while others armed large forces and announced their intention of thoroughly defending their property.

In this latter class was the Cannon group at Kannapolis, not directly in the path of the oncoming horde, but often mentioned as a focal point for the flying squadrons once smaller centers are subdued. Kannapolis is a privately owned mill town with a population in the neighborhood of 10,000, all directly connected with the Cannon mills.

Officials of the Cone mills at Greensboro also expressed apprehension, and ranks of officers were informed at Burlington, largest silk manufacturing center in the two states which was designated as the eastern objective of the motorcade, leaders of which announced plans to work throughout the night. Their route, from Shelby, where the organization sprang up day before yesterday, is approximately 200 miles long.

Armed force met armed force in some places. Nearly 100,000 textile workers in the Carolinas alone, nearly 300 of their mills closed, stood on the sidelines or joined actively in the movement to close every one of the 450 cotton textile plants in the two states.

Plea For Order.

Governor Ehringhaus, advised of the increasing number of strike-bent motorcades in North Carolina, called on R. R. Lawrence, president of the State Federation of Labor, to stop all lawlessness among the strikers, warning that if interference with peaceful workers did not cease, he would take "drastic measures."

The governor said he had Lawrence's promise to do his "level best," but in the meantime reports from the western portion of the textile belt said 1,000 pickets were being organized for descent on Burlington and other mid-state towns, where the strike has had little effect.

Thirty Are Arrested. High Point police arrested 30 members of a flying squadron there after five plants had been closed, and national guardsmen rebuffed a crowd of 600 which sought to force close-downs at two Greenville, S. C., plants, after hours of siege and barrage of oratory.

Reports from Rock Hill that a large motorcade of strikers was en route to Chester and other points determined to close the giant Springs chain, employing 10,000 persons, brought hurried preparations for a siege at the company's plant. Roads were barricaded in the neighborhood of the company's Baldwin mill at Chester, and a large force of officers waited tensely for eventualities.

Barriers of bayonets withstood assaults of the flying squadron at the gates of the two Greenville mills. Time after time the strikers surged forward, only to fall back as guardsmen snapped their rifles into firing position. The Duncan Mill first announced it would close, and many workers left, but success of the guardsmen in clearing away the pickets brought word the management planned to operate tomorrow if possible. A similar situation developed at the Judson mill.

Situation "Under Control." Captain Harry M. Arthur, commanding what he termed a "hard-boiled" guard unit from Union, S. C., said he believed the situation was under control.

"This is the hard-boiled company," he said. "Where the flying squadron goes we go. Our men have orders to shoot, and to shoot to kill if any effort is made to rush them."

The unit prepared to do the flying squadron from mill to mill. Greenville county has only 3,200 strikers out of 10,000 employees, and has presented the most formidable opposition to the strike so far in the Carolinas. In contrast, in the country, North Carolina, "world's combed yarn center," was completely under the domination of the strikers. Not a one of its 104 plants operated and its 25,000 workers were idle. A similar condition prevailed in Spartanburg county, South Carolina, next to Greenville, where 15,000 of 14,000 workers were idle and 28 of 30 mills had closed.

STRIKE TIDE GAINS

HEADWAY IN EAST

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—(AP) The tide of the general textile strike moved steadily over New England tonight, engulfing, in Massachusetts, two of the largest textile centers in the country and, in Rhode Island, seriously menacing a third.

Trouble flared momentarily late today when police at Lowell, armed with night sticks, intervened to break up a crowd of 2,000 which surrounded the Lowell Silk Mill as employees of that plant filed out after their day's work.

Two men were arrested and charged with inciting to riot.

In the New Bedford and Fall River area, where ordinarily nearly 44,000 workers are employed, every plant was closed.

In the populous Blackstone Valley district of Rhode Island, four mills employing an aggregate of 5,500 workers closed today although, as an offset, the great thread manufacturing plant of J. and P. Coats continued to give work to its 3,000 employees, and three other firms employed 98,875 at the defied the United Textile Workers of America to silence their machines.

A compilation on the six states showed 150,000 idle and 98,875 at work. The figures in most cases were obtained from newspaper surveys while the number of those at work represented in several cases at least state totals of normal employment from which known strikers had been subtracted.

In Massachusetts, a survey of the situation showed approximately 73,550 idle and 31,220 at work but these admittedly did not include many small mills; in Rhode Island a newspaper survey showed 16,000 idle against 34,000 at work although the union claimed a higher idleness figure.

Labor leaders insisted that close to 145,000 workers had quit in the six states, while manufacturers conceded at least 90,000 were idle out of more than 200,000 normally employed.

In Massachusetts, estimates of the idle ran as high as 65,000; in Rhode Island an independent newspaper roundup placed the strikers at 15,000, and later 6,500 more joined their ranks. Vermont had 2,500 out and only 500 working, while in New Hampshire more than 12,000 were out, including employees of the gigantic Amoskeag plant, which ordinarily gives work to 8,500, and two big mills at Nashua employing 3,200 more.

In Maine, estimates of the idle ran as high as 4,000 out of 22,000 possible workers, while in Connecticut 13,065 employees were idle in 29 out of the state's 66 cotton, silk and rayon plants.

Developments over the far-flung industrial front continued to come late today with startling swiftness.

At Nashua, where only yesterday it had seemed likely that the strike would not seriously affect the two big plants which are the city's largest industries, the two mills announced the intention of workers had made it undesirable to continue to operate.

Shortly afterward the Manville-Jencks plant at Manville, R. I., announced it was closing.

other Blackstone Valley industry, closed, throwing 2,200 out of work while at the nearby Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates plant at Albion 300 strikers walked out, leaving only 300 in the plant.

ALABAMA PLANTS

ARE FORCED TO CLOSE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Sept. 5.—(AP) Force today added 100 idle to the rolls of strike idle in Alabama, as pickets prevented workers from entering a small yarn mill in Anniston.

The additional idle brought the total in the state to 15,150, out of approximately 38,500 normally employed, with 31 mills shut down and more than 40 still in operation.

Scott Roberts, president of the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers' Association, said he believed unless the "flying squadrons" were successful, the peak of the strike had been reached in Alabama. He said Associated Press figures were approximately correct.

In addition to his protest to George Sloan, president of the American Textile Institute, against "flying squadrons," Roberts today wired Harry Hopkins, director of relief, urging that the strikers who attempted to force other mills to close be denied federal relief.

"Unless we stop these flying squadrons," Roberts said, "there will be serious bloodshed."

'STRONG-ARM' RULE
LAID TO WALMSLEY

"Third Degree" Methods Charged to Mayor Before Long Committee.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP) Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley was pictured today before Senator Huey P. Long's legislative investigating committee as a "strong-arm" dictator of New Orleans through his police force.

A witness before the committee, which is investigating charges of asserted "vice and corruption" in the city government, testified that a woman who appeared before the committee Saturday had been arrested by Walmsley's police, given the "third degree" and compelled to retract her testimony.

"This gang can't bluff anybody out of here," Senator Long thundered after the committee moved to take "necessary action" to protect its witnesses.

The committee and Senator Long had behind them the power of the national guard, which Governor O. K. Allen called out to "protect" them.

As the committee held morning and afternoon sessions on the 18th floor of a downtown skyscraper, there was some commotion uptown in the early morning hours, about considerable shooting near Senator Long's palatial home.

Senator Long said he was informed it was firecrackers children were shooting to celebrate "Walmsley's early trip to China."

Police said five pistol bullets had been fired at the front of the Long residence.

Long said he wasn't even at home, but a neighbor said the senator had leaped out of a window to yell: "What the hell's going on down there," before disappearing quickly.

Walmsley commented that "if anyone shot at Huey Long's house he had done it himself."

"If they did have any shooting,"

Paraguay Recaptures Fort Where War Began

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 5.—(AP)

The "Fort Sumter" of the Chaco war, famed Fort Vanguardia, where fighting started four years ago, was reported back in Paraguay's hands tonight.

A war ministry communique said two more Bolivian forts, one of them Vanguardia, had fallen into the hands of advancing Paraguayan troops, who were driving the enemy northward.

Fort Castillo, in the Bahia Negra sector of the northern Paraguayan river, also was taken, the ministry said, announcing that other sectors were quiet.

PITTMAN CHARGES WARDENS NAMED TO AID TALMADGE

By the Associated Press.
Headquarters of Judge Claude Pittman charged in a statement issued here Wednesday night that Governor Eugene Talmadge had caused the appointment of 60 deputy game wardens for the "real purpose of campaigning through Georgia for him."

Zach C. Cravey, state game and fish commissioner, announced Tuesday that the deputy wardens had been appointed to assist the 13 regular district wardens because of the fact that between 600 and 700 persons had been arrested within the last week for hunting without licenses.

The Pittman headquarters statement said that the "only qualifications" required were that each appointee be "a good local politician" or have "a large family connection" registered to vote. The statement also said that most of those employed are "city men and are not taken from the ranks of the farmers of Georgia."

The governor continues to add voters to the "pay roll," the statement said. Acting through one of his commissioners, Zach D. Cravey, state game commissioner, during the heat of the campaign for the past few weeks, the governor has added 60 deputy game wardens for the alleged purpose of keeping down violations of the game law, but for the real purpose of campaigning through Georgia for him.

FRANCE WILL DEMAND GOLD FOR SAAR MINES

PARIS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—France, conceding the Saar Valley may vote to become a part of Germany, has suggested that Germany start figuring now how to pay for $100,000,000 worth of French mining properties in the territory.

In a note to the League of Nations yesterday France asked that the League avert trouble after the Saar plebiscite next January by having Germany make proposals relative to payment for the French holdings.

France intends to collect "in gold," she said pointedly in a memorandum to Geneva.

The mines were turned over to France by the treaty of Versailles as compensation for French mines destroyed by German armies in the World War. It was stipulated that, in the event the Saar becomes a part of Germany, the reich must pay for the properties.

'Pals' Carry Doug Davis to His Last Resting Place

Pals who only a few brief days ago bade Doug Davis, Atlanta aviation ace, "happy landings," Wednesday afternoon carried his body from the Hapeville Baptist church where the funeral services for the esteemed flyer were held. Doug was buried in College Park cemetery, close by Candler field. In the lower picture is a view of all that remained of the fast plane which smashed to fragments when it crashed in the Thompson Trophy race in the national air races at Cleveland, Ohio, Monday. Inset: The last photo taken of the smiling Doug Davis just before he got into the cockpit for the fatal race.

Doug Davis, intrepid Atlanta aviation ace, who crashed to his death Monday while leading the Thompson Trophy race, leading event in the National Air races at Cleveland, Ohio, Wednesday was buried in College Park cemetery, his final resting place overlooking Candler field, which remains as a partial monument to him and a few of his fellow flyers.

The funeral of Atlanta's ace was a solemn affair. The fanfare of droning planes which usually fly overhead in final tribute to a departed flyer, was absent. Silence swept over the throng of aviators, friends, relatives, mechanics and camp followers of aviation as Doug's remains were committed to the raw grave on the hillside overlooking the airport.

A solitary army pursuit plane took off, made a wide circuit, and dove down one time in salute as the procession entered the cemetery. The plane landed and silence swept over Candler field and over the solemn crowd on the hillside.

Eyes Are Moist.

Tears trickled down sun-bronzed faces that had been burned by winds at high altitudes. Eyes that hour after hour nightly follow distant beacon lights were moist. Mechanics rubbed their eyes with hands that were rough and knotted. A "grease monkey," whose duty it had been to check over the grease cups on Doug's transport plane before he took off, made no effort to hide his grief. To him, Doug was all that a man should be. The youngster had lost a pal, who, though a great flyer, was never too busy to stop and chat with a fellow whose occupation placed him far below that of an ace transport pilot in aviation's system of ranking.

Funeral services were conducted at the Hapeville Baptist church with the Rev. John P. Eden, the Rev. Z. E. Barron and the Rev. C. H. Mount officiating. Six close friends escorted the body of the famed flyer to the grave: George Shaeley, Frank Andre, Walter Shaffer, Archie Comer, George Cushing and Grover Pressnell. The pallbearers were men who had been associated with Doug during his long flying career. Other pilots, mechanics and attendants at Candler field served as an honorary escort. In the escort were straight khaki-clad men with the wings of the army air corps on their left chests, who bowed in profound respect to this flyer who as a youth of 17 had been the youngest flyer in their ranks.

Noted Pilots Here.

Gathered with Doug's home town folks who knew and loved him were Clifford Henderson, managing director of the national air races, and Lee Miles, one of the contestants in the Thompson trophy race, and Ray Brown, nationally known aviator, who flew here Wednesday to pay final tribute to Doug Davis. "Pop," Cleveland, well known in aviation circles, who brought Doug's body home to Atlanta, stood by the graveside until the throng had moved out of the cemetery.

Doug's fame as a racing pilot has been blazoned in news stories in every large paper in the United States, but George Cushing, who as vice president and general manager of Eastern Air Lines was Doug's "boss," contributed as a tribute to Doug's ability as a transport pilot, the fact that "Doug was one of the very best pilots we had. I'm not a bit hesitant to say that he was the best passenger pilot on the line. Everybody wanted to fly with Doug. Frequently folks would delay their schedules a day or so to be able to make their journey with him. He was thoughtful and considerate of his passengers and delighted in showing points of interest. He'd even go out of his way to fly over a spot some passenger had intimated they wanted to see from the air."

Committee Deplores Death.

The aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which Major William L. Plummer, of the army air corps reserves, is chairman, Wednesday adopted a resolution expressing profound grief at Doug's death and expressed "ardent admiration for the qualities he exemplified." A copy of the resolutions were presented to Doug's family.

City Council Tuesday afternoon unanimously paid tribute to the memory of the flyer.

Possibility that Doug's death might have been caused when a piece of the wing of Doug's racing plane was torn away while he was on the turn, throwing his plane out of control, was advanced by officials, who Wednesday were making an investigation of the accident.

Howard Rough, chief of the aeronautic inspection at Cleveland, said that though the investigation is not complete, "there is every indication that wing flutter, possibly induced by

FLOATING POWER engine mountings. Johnny Farrell, former U. S. Open Golf champion, drives off the hood of a new Dodge—with engine running! Floating Power smother vibration which, in ordinary cars, would prevent such a "drive."

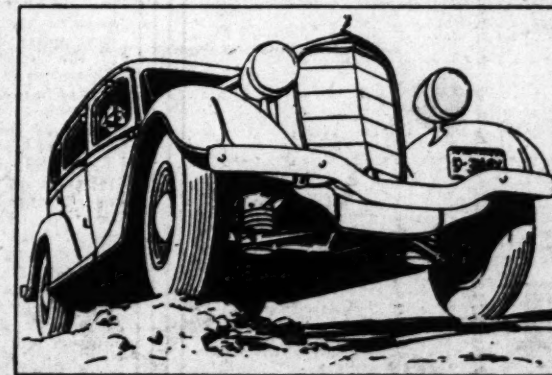

HYDRAULIC BRAKES—stop instantly. Safe—sure—smooth. Self-squaling. No need to spend money for frequent adjustments. Save on tires and brake linings, too. The safety provided by Dodge hydraulic brakes is a vital need in this age of speed.

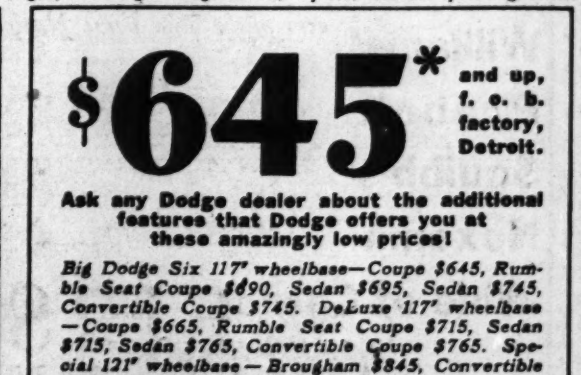

GREATER ECONOMY—you're not hauling "dead weight" in a Dodge. That's another reason why it costs so little to run a Dodge. Owners report getting 18 to 22 miles to a gallon of gas, with big savings in oil, repairs, and all operating costs.

SAFETY ALL-STEEL BODY—vital safety for you and your family. In dramatic tests, Dodge cars have been pushed off steep cliffs—plunging, crashing, rolling, turning over in mid-air... then able to drive off under their own power!

"FLOATING-CUSHION" WHEELS—pass right over bumps and ruts without a jar or tremor, without tipping the body of the car. Make the roughest roads seem smooth. Stop rear seat tossing and jolting. An improvement over ordinary "knee-type" wheels.

RICHBERG PRAISES AID TO INDIVIDUALS

F.D.R.'s Executive Council Secretary Reports U. S. Relief Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Donald R. Richberg, secretary of President Roosevelt's executive council, presented an accounting of the government's enormous relief program today with a prefix saying that "under the present administration" the individual is getting aid.

It was Richberg's fourth report to the president on the progress of the New Deal and it drew a sharp contrast between the Rooseveltian approach and that of the previous administration. "Prior to March, 1933," he wrote, major efforts had been to provide corporate relief.

The accounting covered activities of government agencies for "relief of individual financial pressures," such as the home loan system, and those for "relief of corporate financial pressure," as typified by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

No aggregate figure was given, but

Ex-Constitution Carrier Returns After 35 Years

Thirty-five years ago Ralph W. Pease carried The Constitution. Wednesday, after many years away from Atlanta, Mr. Pease was a visitor in this city where he was born 45 years ago. He found hardly anyone whom he knew, he said, but felt good, he added, to be back on Alabama street and on Peachtree.

Mr. Pease has followed his father's footsteps. Oliver J. Pease was a printer on The Constitution 50 years ago, he said, and later operated a printing shop here. The son for many years has been in that business in Dallas, Texas.

The spread of activities was great. "The accumulated effects of a long depression," Richberg said, "created intolerable financial strains upon individuals and corporations, threatening individuals with loss of homes and loss or impairment of livelihood through inability to obtain credit and meet fixed or recurrent obligations."

"The financial distress of individuals and the vast reduction in volume of business and national income impaired the credit and threatened the solvency of corporate enterprises and financial institutions."

The major efforts to meet these needs prior to March, 1933, were directed to the relief of corporate (or institutional) difficulties, largely through the creation and operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"Under the present administration, measures to relieve financial pressures have been extended to a variety of measures for the relief of individual distress."

In the individual category, Richberg devoted most space to the Home Owners' Loan and Deposit Insurance corporations.

He said the home loan organization reported "its operations ended panic in the real estate market and brought about some stability while the social consequence of preventing the eviction of several hundred thousand persons during a period of great tension and unrest can hardly be overestimated."

The RFC was created with $7,200,000,000 of authorizations since its creation—$5,200,000,000 under Mr. Roosevelt—and $5,853,000,000 in cash disbursements.

Richberg told the president that advances under the new "loans to industry act" will "probably not be large."

GROCERY, GEM THIEVES ARE HUNTED BY POLICE

Homes, Stores Entered; Burglar Shot by Police Dies at Hospital.

While city and county police were investigating the activities Wednesday morning of jewelry and grocery thieves, a negro burglar shot by a policeman Tuesday night died of his wounds at Grady hospital.

Sanders, 25, negro, who gave his address as 194 Hubbard street, died at Grady hospital shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday morning from a bullet wound in the stomach. He was shot by Patrolman William Cody when the negro fled from him and other officers after he set off a burglar alarm in attempting to enter the New York Stock house, 306 Pryor street. He was shot when he made a motion as to draw a pistol on the pursuing officer, it was said.

County police were investigating a burglary of jewelry valued at $1,000 taken from the home of Lewis Starke, 2008 Rivers road, N. E. The loss included a quantity of money, a platinum bar pin set with diamonds, a platinum bracelet set with diamonds and sapphires, a yellow gold diamond ring, a gold watch, and other articles.

The burglars of Tuesday night were no respecters of persons. They entered the home of James L. Mayson, city attorney, at 228 Fifteenth street, N. E., and took $22 and a bar pin valued at $75.

L. F. Miller, of 771 Boulevard, N. E., reported that he lost $5 to burglars.

In another instance burglars ripped open the roof of a grocery warehouse at 643 Glen street, S. W., and carried off 100 cases of lard and 500 pounds of sugar. They set off a burglar alarm but escaped before police arrived. Police, however, found six cases of lard in the street in front of 700 McDaniel street, and two other cases at different points on other streets, indicating, they said, that the burglars used trucks, and that the lard fell from them.

A padlock on the door of a grocery store at 1500 DeKalb avenue was sawed by burglars who took 25 cartons of cigarettes, 50 flat tins of cigars, and a large quantity of cigars and chewing tobacco.

County police were summoned to 3475 Roxboro road to investigate a burglary at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Investigating officers had made no report Wednesday night.

When he stopped at the lonely spot on McDonough road at the command of the bandit, the man asked him how much money he had in his pockets. He replied: "About 25 cents." Pearson said the bandit took a quarter and two pennies and left the automobile from his pocket and began abusing him for not carrying any "real money."

He told police he had, in addition to the change the bandit took from him, $70 in bills which belonged to his employers. This he had in the back of the car.

When Pearson fired the first shot at the bandit, the man screamed, "Lord, have mercy," he said.

Fulton County Policemen J. W. Gilbert, W. C. Tulin and Lieutenant R. P. Jordan, who were the first officers to arrive at the scene of the shooting, described the bandit as being about six feet, one or two inches tall and red-headed. They said he was dressed in a white suit and had a straw hat which bore a Columbus, Ga. label. The bandit appeared to be about 20 or 21 years old, they said.

Two negroes, Ray Hawks, of 90 Butler street, and Alexander Bryant, of 204 Decatur street, who were driving on McDonough road, were witnesses to the shooting and gave police their account of it.

The body was sent to the undertaking establishment of A. S. Turner & Son, in Decatur, pending identification.

INDUSTRIAL FARMS OF FULTON COUNTY PRAISED BY BOARD

Fulton county's corrective institutions were given an exceptionally clean bill of health in a report submitted to the county commission at its Wednesday meeting.

The committee, consisting of the July-August grand jury and operated as a secret investigating body, submitted its report through Claud Neely, secretary of the grand jury, who told the commissioners that all of the visits of the committee were unexpected at the institutions, which they found in excellent condition.

The Industrial Farms for both male and colored boys were given particular praise.

The food, clothing, sanitation and moral atmosphere of all convict camps and the almshouse also were commended.

T. C. LAW NEW MEMBER OF EDUCATIONAL BOARD

Thomas C. Law has been named one of the three members in the United States of the committee on the educational foundation of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar, it was announced Wednesday by Andrew D. Agnew, of Milwaukee, Wis., recently elected grandmaster of the body.

This committee will have supervision and control of the educational foundation which was instituted by J. K. Orr, of Atlanta, when he retired as national head of the order. It amounts to more than $4,000,000, and has assisted approximately 25,000 students to obtain college educations during the 10 years it has been in operation. Each state has a special committee for the administration of the fund and Mr. Law has been head of the Georgia committee since the inception of the fund.

He will continue to administer this fund in Georgia as well as carry on his work on the national board. The other members of the national board include Stuart H. Walker, of New York, and Fred A. Aldrich, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

THOMAS C. LAW.

Arrangements were completed Wednesday with R. J. Spiller, owner of Lithia Springs, to prepare for several hundred employees and officials of the Ford plant and distributors. The entire grounds will be turned over to the Ford visitors for the day.

I. B. Groves, branch manager at Long Beach, and formerly connected with the Atlanta plant as branch manager, made the challenge, which was readily accepted by Atlanta.

SAFEGUARDING ALL INTERESTS

PATRONS EMPLOYEES INVESTORS

The Bell Telephone System is so organized and regulated that your interests as a user of the service are safeguarded, as well as the interests of the 800,000 or more individuals who have invested their savings in the business. The welfare of the army of 270,000 Bell telephone workers who build, maintain, and operate the business is equally safeguarded. To favor any one of these groups at the expense of the others would not only be poor judgment, but contrary to the fundamental policy of the business.

If the best interests of all the people are to be served, then revenues should be sufficient to assure the continuation of the best possible grade of telephone service and to insure the continued financial integrity of the business.

The earnings of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company during the best years of its history have never exceeded 7% on its investment. During the past three years the average was less than 5%, and in 1933 it dropped to about 4%.

Such inadequate earnings might easily have endangered the foundation structure of the business and hampered the service but for the Company's farsighted policy of retaining each year a small part of earnings to care for financial stress during unprofitable years.

As a result of this sound policy, telephone service has not been allowed to suffer, but on the contrary has been constantly improved during the past four years. And the scope of the service has been extended to the far corners of the earth, so that you can now talk to almost anyone, anywhere, at any time, quickly, and at a surprisingly small cost.

In this way the telephone company has fulfilled and will strive to continue to fulfill its obligation to the public, that of furnishing the best possible service at a cost as low as is consistent with financial safety.

imposed at the gin upon excess production.

Although the farmer holding excess certificates in most cases will dispose of them through the pool, provision also was made to permit him to make sales locally, provided they are cleared through the government office in the county affected.

The program was described by the farm administration in the form of "crop insurance" designed to afford compensation to farmers whose crops have been so cut by adverse weather conditions.

Meanwhile Cully A. Cobb, chief of the AAA's cotton section, announced distribution of tax exemption certificates was being "rapidly completed" in all states. He added that in states where certificates had not been allotted prior to opening of the ginning season the free movement of the crop was not being hampered, as interim certificates had been issued in such cases.

Wipe Out The Acidity. Keep Stomach Young

Isn't it wonderful how delicious a fried meal tastes? Chops, with gravy... fried potatoes... tomatoes... Mm! Mm! Makes you hungry to think of it. But oh, how you wish you hadn't eaten it if it hits back at you with sour, gassy indigestion, heartburn, and gets all out of breath.

It's not your stomach goes wrong. It is an acidity. That is the cause of most stomach distress such as the hot, lump, stuffed-up feeling you get. You haven't had any real relief because you have not had the new preparation which wipes out acidity out of your system. It is a new one... called Flacidin... which wipes out the acidity, the undigested lumps of food, and soothes the irritated stomach. The vital gastric fluids (which have been destroyed by acidity) become active again. Immediately your stomach feels free, active, comfortable. And so will you! Drink some water with your Flacidin at any several times during the day, and especially before you retire. Get a three-ounce package of Flacidin at any drug store. At the new, lower price, the big package costs very little—(left).

HIGH U. S. OFFICIALS ACCUSED OF AIDING SALE OF MUNITIONS

that he would ask the navy to send any inspectors to Peru that Electric Boat might recommend.

The inspector's duty would be to approve for the Peruvian government the submarines sold by Electric Boat.

"Yes," Spear agreed, "we wanted a competent man."

Both Spear and Carse told the committee frankly that they overlooked few details in an effort to develop the South American business.

Some of their activities included: Protests to state department officials that Germany was violating the treaty Versailles by attempting to build submarines in South America.

A representation to Vickers that Japanese submarine builders might be "checked" by the U. S. Navy through plans to acquire South American business. Electric said it understood the Japanese had agreed to stay out of other nations' business.

Efforts by Carse and other company officials to persuade United States bankers to help finance South American loans that were to be used for munitions.

Attempts—successful in Peru—to make national antimonies the lever to cause munitions purchases from Electric.

Letters telling of Ambassador Morgan having consulted Aubry over a three-month period in an effort to help the United States firm do business.

Also showing that the Brazilian negotiations collapsed, principally because the money to acquire the submarines could not be readily raised.

At one time Carse took some Peruvian notes as part payment for a submarine sale. These notes were marketed in the United States.

Senator Clark and other members of the committee contended that the submarine builders had thereby helped build up the American market for Peruvian bonds—most of which later proved worthless.

Carse said he saw "no connection." Nor could he see any basis for the charge by Senator Bone, democrat, Washington, that the firm's intensive efforts to sell munitions had helped make Latin-America "an armed camp."

Carse replied that "submarines are a defensive weapon."

Spear agreed with Bone, but added: "In event of another world war," Spear agreed with Bone, "I do not believe a nation in the world will be able to survive."

Sees War Trend. One of the world's foremost authorities on submarine building and the firm's design, Spear also agreed with the Washington senator that the frenzied striving of nations for armament superiority seemed leading toward another world war, with no solution, however, and commented with a slow smile that he was "a businessman and his business was selling submarines."

During the day it developed that American naval experts attributed the South American armament race in part to the fact that Chile, after the World War, "upset the balance of power" by buying six submarines and a couple of other fighting craft from England.

Controls Patents. The underwater craft were built originally by the Electric Boat Company, which holds basic patents on submarines that bring in royalties from most of the nations of the world.

Apparently Sir Basil Zaharoff, the best-known salesman of munitions in the world, has not made Latin America his field in recent years.

Under the board order Miss Pitts is given a leave of absence with pay until October 1. During that time she can file an application for a pension if she elects to do so. No indication of whether Miss Pitts will take the issue into the courts was forthcoming after the board decision. She telephoned a downtown hotel, where she lives, to say she would not return until Thursday.

INQUIRY IS APPROVED BY BRITISH GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The British government yesterday formally approves the United States' investigation of private armaments companies' operations throughout the world, it was authoritatively indicated here today.

Progress had already been made at Geneva in getting the activities of such firms before the public, it was pointed out.

Sources close to government officials have given full support to the Americans in this objective.

Revelations at Washington that an agreement exists between Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., of Great Britain, and the Electric Boat Company, of Groton, Conn., both submarine manufacturers, set today.

British leaders do not resent the fact that the name of British government entered into public discussion during their recent European conversations, it was said, that they felt much could be done for the cause of peace by exposing the political influence of private armaments firms.

The British embassy at Washington will send full reports on the hearings for study here.

Miss Pitts came into the board meeting flanked by the 15 teachers of the Couch school. She asserted she attended to her duties and that she loved the children.

Supt. and E. Coleman, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools, told the board Miss Pitts could not perform the duties of a principal.

Mrs. W. B. R. Bell, former president of the Couch P. T. A., testified "Miss Pitts is not in sympathy with the children, and many parents would not appear here because they feared Miss Pitts would make it hard for their children." Mrs. E. I. Hilderbrand testified similarly.

"The Scarlet Empress"

With Dietrich at Fox

Opening today at the Fox theater, Marlene Dietrich's portrayal of the "noble and notorious" Catherine of Russia in "The Scarlet Empress," Josef von Sternberg's most recent Paramount production, is claimed as the most colorful role of her career.

The picture itself, likewise, is said to be Director Von Sternberg's outstanding contribution to the screen; a spectacular offering in magnificent settings, gorgeously costumed and, above all, the story of one of the most glamorous figures in history told with a dramatic force which never once wavers.

Miss Dietrich enacts her role impressively throughout, from the time she enters Russia as an obscure German princess betrothed to the mad Grand Duke Peter, to her occupancy of the throne during the most turbulent period of Russia's early history.

John Lodge, as the courtly Count Alexei, by his performance gains a particular niche for himself among the screen's ablest leading men. Sam Jaffe, similarly, in playing the idiotic Grand Duke Peter, gives full expression to the rare talent which first was recognized in his appearance as Kringlein in "Grand Hotel" on Broadway.

Louise Dresser portrays the haughty Empress Elizabeth. Screen credit in the production is given to more than 40 players who portray personalities in and around the imperial Russian court of the middle eighteenth century.

"The Scarlet Empress," from every standpoint, is claimed as an unusual achievement, at once a spectacle, artistically beautiful, and a dramatic, satisfying picture.

McPherson Chapel Forms Setting For Elliott-Sluhan Wedding

A marriage impressive in its dignity and beauty, and one of cordial social interest was that of Miss Marian Frances Elliott, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Elliott, of Fort McPherson, to Clyde Albert Sluhan, of Atlanta, formerly of Toledo, Ohio, which was solemnized on Wednesday morning, September 5, at 10:30 o'clock, in the historic chapel at Fort McPherson.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Adell J. Moncrief Jr., pastor of the Savannah Baptist church in Tampa, Fla., in the presence of representatives from civilian and military circles.

Nuptial Music.
Prior to the ceremony an appropriate musical program, which included the doxology with chimes, Schubert's "Serenade," "Barcarolle" from the "Tales of Hoffman," and "Lieb-straum," was rendered by Mrs. C. M. Stodghill, a close friend of the family. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley.

An artistic arrangement of palms, foliage plants, baskets of Easter lilies and white gladioli combined with tall brass seven-branched candelabra candelabra, in which burned unshaded white tapers, adorned the altar. Branches of Easter lilies and white gladioli guarded either side of the altar and bouquets of lilies marked the pews reserved for the families. The chancel rail was covered with garlands of asparagus ferns and palms and seven-branched candelabra holding unshaded white tapers completed the effective decorations. The prie-dieu was covered with white satin and encircled by ferns and valley lilies.

The "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" announced the arrival of the wedding party. Robert Elliott Owen, young cousin of the bride, entered first to open the chance gate to allow the bride party to pass through. Miss Patricia Stodghill and Miss Penelope Stodghill were junior bridesmaids. Their dresses were of ash of roses wool crepe, trimmed with white fur. They wore white fur toques and carried white fur muffs to which were attached clusters of roses and valley lilies in shaver effect.

The maid of honor, Miss Betsy Smith, wore brown wool crepe, with touches of ash of roses trimming and brown fur. Her hat and accessories were brown. She carried a bouquet of pale lavender and pink asters tied with cream satin ribbons. John W. Elliott Jr. was best man and the ushers were L. R. Owen and Clifford M. Stodghill Jr.

The bride entered with her father, John W. Elliott, by whom she was given in marriage. She was lovely in a dark blue corded wool crepe travelling suit, trimmed with powder blue crepe and soft gray imported fur. She wore a small dark blue stitched hat with pale blue trim and her accessories were blue. Her bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses and valley lilies, tied with buff satin ribbon.

Mr. Sluhan and his bride left immediately for a wedding trip to the mountains. Upon their return they will be at home at 758 Greenwood avenue, N. E.

Miss Jimmie Lucile Woods Weds Garland Hardwick at Home Rites

The marriage of Miss Jimmie Lucile Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Woods Sr., to Garland Hardwick, was solemnized quietly at the home of the bride's parents on Rodgers avenue, at 10 o'clock, by Rev. Fred L. Gilman, officiating in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Effective Decorations. Stately palms flanked the improvised altar, flanked by seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers. Mounds of white lilies and asters were arranged against the rich green background. Large baskets filled with pastel-colored dahlias and roses were placed throughout the house.

Prior to the ceremony, a musical program was given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Jones. Mrs. Jones sang "I Love You Truly," "At Dawning" and "O Promise Me." The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played as the bride and groom entered and "To a Wild Rose," by MacDowell, was rendered softly during the ceremony.

Miss Evelyn Woods, only sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a gown of pink satin fashioned along graceful lines and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and white swainsons tied with blue tulle.

Lovely Bride. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Robert C. Woods Sr., with whom she entered and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, C. Ott Jenkins. The lovely bride, who possesses unusual charm and dignity, was beautiful in her wedding gown of white satin, fashioned along princess lines. The sleeves were long, with a graceful puff above the elbow. The skirt featured a long train and her veil of bridal illusion tulle was made cap shape and caught with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a diamond pin, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a showered bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Woods Sr. entertained the bride party and guests at an informal reception at their home. Mrs. Woods, mother of the bride, was crowned in blue chiffon and wore a shoulder bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Write to the Editor, The Constitution, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: Here's how I live my life: Monday I go to work at seven in the morning and work until six, when I come home and sit and talk with my family. Tuesday is spent exactly the same way. Wednesday is varied by going to prayer meeting with the family in the evening, while Friday and Saturday are just like Monday and Tuesday. I have no girl friends and no boy friends. I have two older sisters who live the same life I do and one brother who goes out and does what he pleases. My father is dead and mother doesn't understand why this life is not satisfactory to me. Please help me before I go mad.

LONELY.

ANSWER: You must help yourself and here are some of the ways of doing it. Your work must necessarily throw you with other young people of your own age and if you have friends among them it is your fault as much as theirs. "He who would have friends must show himself friendly." It may be that you cannot make a life with no other effort than this, but you can certainly make girl friends with no other effort. Make a point to speak pleasantly to your associates. Open up some conversation, tell them that you are bored and lonely and that you want to make friends with them, invite them to come to see you in the evening.

The radio in your home brings you many a program that should open up new interests for you. There are few topics of human interest that are not discussed, from how to make a cake to how to choose a life's work. Tune out the jazz and tune in on some program that will cultivate your mind and broaden your interest.

Spend a few cents for magazines. If you don't like to read, buy those that are full of pictures. Before you know it you will be compelled to read about the people and the scenes that are pictured in them.

It's a mighty poor church that offers its members an opportunity to pray and nothing else. If your church is so narrow and so constricted in its view of religion as that, then get into another church, one that provides some entertainment for its young people and opens up new vistas of opportunity to help those even less fortunate than you are yourself. The church is full of romance and if the pastor and the people that run it are so blind that they cannot see it and cannot plan a program that will help its members to see it, then the

In the receiving line with Mrs. Akers will be Mrs. Edward G. Warner, president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association; Mrs. Randolph Wilson, chairman of group No. 4, and Mrs. Charles J. Haden, president of the national association. Akers and members of group No. 4 will be assisted in entertaining by members of the executive board.

Mrs. Warner will extend greetings to the students and welcome the younger graduates who have recently become affiliated with the Atlanta alumnae groups. She will then introduce Mrs. Haden who, in June, was elected president of the national alumnae association. The tea tables placed on the spacious lawn will be attractively decorated in lavender and purple Western colors, and at the refreshments will carry out this color motif.

The following young girls who leave from Wesleyan will be present: Misses Mary Seabrook Smith, Helen Barnes, Doris Everett, Susan Machette, Bernadine Smith, Elizabeth Flowers, Carolyn McCarty, Frances Waid, Gladys Morrison, Helen Smart, Charlotte Arnold, Annette Gardner, Dorothy Lunsford, Irene Brewer, Frances Stodghill and Catherine Scott.

De Molay Auxiliary. The De Molay Mother's Auxiliary will meet Friday, September 7, at the Scotch Rite hospital at 1 o'clock. A picnic lunch will be served in the garden. In the event of wet weather the meeting will be held in the dining hall. Special guests for this occasion will be the matron and head nurses of the hospital.

Mrs. Kilburn Feted. Mrs. Laura Kilburn has returned from Weicon where she was honored guest at a dinner given on Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Carter Chandler at their home in Vineville. Pastel-shaded flowers centered the table, where covers were placed for 6 guests, close friends of the honor guest.

HENDRIX URGES U. S. TO USE NORTH CAMP

Suggestion that the federal government take over Fulton county's old north camp property and convert it into a public park, in the meantime utilizing the 316-acre tract as a camp for transient relief cases, was made Wednesday by Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the county public works committee, in a letter to Miss G. B. Shepperson, state relief administrator.

Mrs. Hendrix pointed out to Miss Shepperson that the work of completing park plans would require several years, and that in the meantime the government would be provided with an ideal place for its transient cases.

TWO AMERICAN FLIERS LAND IN FAROE ISLANDS
THORSHAVN, Faroe Islands, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Professor Richard U. Light, of Yale, and Robert Wilson, of New Rochelle, landed their airplane here at 5 p. m. Tuesday after a flight from Reykjavik, Iceland.

They had covered the 500 miles of distance across the north Atlantic in 6 hours and 15 minutes. The professor and his companion started out from New Haven about two weeks ago without telling their destination, although it was rumored they were contemplating a flight by stages around the world.

sooner it is closed by the absence of its members, the better. Mind you, I am not recommending that you leave the church—but that particular church. Better still, step in and help to organize some social activities within it. Many an organization has been saved from dry rot by the energy and the activity of one person that refused to sit quietly by and see it disintegrate.

Remember this, too, that it is the effort you make and not the effort that is made in your behalf that sets you the most satisfaction. You must get up and out and bestir yourself to create interest and amusement if you would really profit by it. There must be a leader in every cause and there must be someone to start the activity in every group of people. Why not delegate yourself to start something in a social way that will benefit you and your sisters and the other young people in your neighborhood?

Life is not handed to any of us ready made, at least not to many of us, and it is much better so. The most bored people in the world are the ones that have everything to make them comfortable and happy. There is something in the laziness of us that calls for action, and urges us to be up and doing. Three sisters in one home, all bored to tears with the monotony of their lives should be able to hatch the best sort of plans for their own amusement and for the good of their community.

The Third Degree.

The bidding, the opening and subsequent leads, the line of defense adopted by the adversaries—all of these are invaluable to the wise declarer when, in playing a hand, he must decide whether or not to take a finesse, or if a finesse cannot be avoided, in which direction it should be taken. But occasionally situations arise in which there is no bidding, and the opponents have not sufficient scope in the play to uncover their plans.

In such cases it is often possible to coax a valuable point of information from the opponents. When they are cagey and refuse to come out from their hiding places, an opportunity often presents itself to put them through a third degree and force them to talk. In most cases this end is gained by leading out a long suit and forcing discards which will prove to be a revelation in the end.

The bidding:

North East South West
1♣ Pass 2♥ Pass
3♥ Pass 4NT Pass
5NT Pass 7♥ Pass

South's bidding may be considered somewhat optimistic, but after he has been assured that North holds heart support, and the missing aces have been placed in his partner's hand by means of the 4-5 notrump convention, he is willing to take a chance that the club suit can be established for whatever discards he may want. The contract is not altogether a bad one is proved by the fact that it is as worst dependent upon a finesse.

West's opening lead of the spade king is won by dummy's ace. South now takes stock of the situation and discovers that he can win 12 tricks with top cards. The thirteenth trick may result either from a diamond finesse or from a squeeze.

The opening lead marks West with the spade queen, which alone will win dummy's trick. If West also holds the diamond king, on the eleventh lead he will be hard-pressed. He cannot hold the spade queen and guard the diamond king as well. But how is South to tell when West is reduced to two cards, what those two cards are? With the jack of spades starting him in the face, West must always keep his partner in the fact that he throws a diamond will mean nothing. Meanwhile, if East holds the diamond king, either a finesse or a double squeeze will yield a grand slam, for then West would have to retain the spade queen, and East the diamond king, and neither could hold more than three clubs. To find out how he should play the hand, South determines simply to lead hearts and watch the discards. It is quite possible that East and West hold four clubs each, and therefore that each has good cause to think that he holds a club stopper. In that case, the first opponent to give up a club will do so only because there is some suit he is even more anxious to guard, and that opponent will in all likelihood hold the diamond king.

On this basis South begins to run his hearts. On the first five, West discards three spades and a diamond; East throws his three spades. By this time whichever adversary does not hold the diamond king must know that his partner has it, for South, with the ace and king of diamonds, would have 13 tricks and would not need to play out the hand.

On the sixth heart, West throws a club. Here is one clue—if West held exactly four clubs, he would not throw one unless the diamond suit were important to him. On this same trick, East throws a diamond. Now, with either three clubs or five clubs, East could have discarded one of them without worry, so the club division between the adversaries was probably 4-4, and as between the two of them, West, having discarded a club, is more likely to hold the diamond king.

The seventh heart now yields another clue from West: North throws a club and so does East. South next leads the five of clubs and runs dummy's ace-king-queen, on the last of which West must be forced to discard a diamond. But by now South has determined his course—he leads dummy's diamond ten and on it plays
